Mechanics' Institute.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE MEMBERS' INSTITUTE OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Having been repeatedly urged by many of the members to be a candidate for the office of Corresponding Secretary, to be voted for this evening at a special election to be held for officers of the Institute, and with a high appreciation of your kindness, and a grateful sense of my obligations for your confidence, yet I must respectfully decline being a sandidate for re-election, and trust you will elect another person to fill my place. Having already been twice unanimously elected as your Corresponding Secretary, without my solicitation for the same, and baving served the Institute as such for the last two years to the best of my poor abilities, without receiving any emoluments whatever for my services, or for the lectures which I have had the honor to deliver before the members, yet if my feeble efforts to promote the welfare of the Institute have in the least been successful, I shall consider myself well repaid for my services; and it is with the warmest foelings of a grateful heart that I shall always look back, with great pleasure, to the many courteous attentions which I have always received from the officers and members of the Mechanics' Institute, and they will be preserved with deep emotion during my life. teous attentions which I have always received from the officers and members of the Mechanics Institute, and they will be preserved with deep emotion during my life. Our country owes to our mechanics a debt of gratitude, for without their skill we should know but little of our present greatness. Their productions have caused the wonder and admiration of the whole civilized world. We are indebted to them for all the triumphs of art—for all the wonderful exhibitions of genius and scientific applications of natural powers, and in all matters of practical use our mechanics have surpassed the world. And who made greater struggles and sacrifices for our freedom, in the Revolution, than the mechanics and workingmen of our country? Every one is himself, in some measure, entrusted with the public safety; and their duty and principles have always been to respect the laws of their security, and to defend our liberties, and the perpetuity of our institutions; and in the hearts and judgment of the honest and enlightened mechanics and workingmen of our free, fair virtuous and independent country, our national pride is at stake; and in our glorious land where the warm and noble heart throbs with self-confidence and pride, to love our beloved country we must be faithful to the constitution and the laws. Trusting that yow will feel and realize your own individual importance, and attach the proper weight to you gown personal exertions, with my heat wishes for the properity of the institution, I remain, faithfully,

Your friend and obedient servant,

CHARLES H. DELAVAN,

New York, Feb. 15, 1853. Corresponding Secretary.

A WIFE MURDERED BY HER HUSBAND. Information was brought to the Second District station house, yesterday morning, that the wife of a man named Bernard Hagan, residing on the corner of Charles and Tellman streets, was lying dead in bed, her appearance Tellma streets, was lying dead in bed, her appearance indicating that she had been violently beaten. Officer Josephus Buck immediately proceeded to the house, and found the woman in the back basement, her face all covered with bruises, and marks of blood about the floor, and the walls and celling all bespattered. He took a view of the premises and went to notify Coroner Ball. In the meantime officer Phillips, of the Second District police, proceeded in search of the husband, whom he met about nine o'clock, on his return from Williamsburg, whither he had gone to inform his relatives of the death of his wife. On taking him into custody, Hagan said to the officer.

he had gone to inform his relatives of the death of his wife. On taking him into custody, Hagan said to the officer,

"I am not guilty."

"You aint," returned the officer; "How do you know what I have arrested you for?"

The prisoner did not answer, but hung down his head, and commenced crying. He was taken to the station house and looked up, after which officer Phillips returned, and institute a search about the premises. In the apartment occuried by Hagan, everything appeared in disorder; blood was smeared about on everything, a pair of boots were diegred with it, and long hairs, as if pulled out of a female's head, mixed with it. A shovel, with which it is supposed the deed was consummated, was found on the hearth, the handle nearly burned off. On going into the yard, a pair of drawers and a woman's undergarments were found hidden in a corner of the weodhouse, saturated with blood. These were taken possession of. Subsequently, on examining the body it was found that her underclothes had been taken off, and clean ones put on and a rag was found which presented the appearance of having been used in wiping up the floor, which was also saturated with blood.

In the ofternoon Coroner Ball visited the house, and in conjunction with Drs. Cochran, (Jr. and Sr.). Gliffillen, and Smith, held a post mortem examination, the result of which has not transpired. The inquest is set down for Wednesday, (to morrow,) at ten A.M., when all the facts in the case will be brought to light. In the meantime the accused is detained in custody.

It appears, from information obtained from the neighbors, that the accused and his wife have had frequent quarrels, and on Saturday afternoon and Sunday evending disturbed the whole neighborhood with their dissensions. Hagan is about thirty years of age, and the decessed about twenty fire. They had no children. The husband is a stonemason by trade, and has heretofore sustained a good reputation for sobriety and industry.

FIRE AT THE NEW YORK STRAM SUGAR REFINING COMPANY'S WARRHOUSE.

At half-past twelve O'clock, yesterday afternoon, a fire broke out in the warehouse of this company, a fire broke out in the warehouse of this company, astuated in Montgomery street. The fire originated in the cellar of the warehouse, where raw sugars are stored previous to refining, and spread to the first floor, where a large quantity of sugar was stored. The flames were immediately discovered by the werkmen, who gave the alarm, and all the hose, (with which the building is plentifully supplied) was brought to bear on the fire, which was put out in about half an hour. The sugar on the second and third floors were also badly damaged by water. Nothing but the complete internal arrangement of their hose, used in putting the fire out, saved the entire building from destruction. The damage, which is principally by water, will amount to about $15,000. The company are fully insured in different offices in this city and in Europe. As no lights or fire is ever allowed in the warehouse, the fire, most probably, is the work of an incendiary. The front door on Montgomery street was left open while the men were at dinner, and it is supposed by the proprietors that the incendiary must have thrown a lighted match into the building through this door. It will be remembered that this establishment was almost wholly destroyed by fire about two years ago, and since that time the greatest precautions have been taken by the proprietors, in order not to have a repetition of such an event. The workmen are obliged to change their clothes when they come there in the morning, for a sait which belongs to the establishment, so by this means none of the men can bring any pipes or matches into the building. During the entire day men were employed bailing the wator out of the cellar for the iron shatters on the cellar foor had been open it would have gereatly facilitated their efforts to extinguish the flames, and the fire would have been got under with very trifling damage. As the warehouse which took fire is separate from the rest of the At half-past twelve O'clock, yesterday afternoon

THE VETERAN CORPS OF 1812.

A numerous meeting of the above corps was held hast svening at the American Hall. James B. Murray was chosen Fresident on the occasion. A series of resolutions were offered by Colonel Haight, stating that they had watched with great interest the proceedings of the Senat's in regard to an extension of the Bounty Land Act, passed September 28, 1850, so to augment the quantity of land provided by the operations of that act, as to ensure 160 acres to each soldier or his representative; and being duly impressed with the propriety and justness of the measure, they respectfully urged its speedy action. That in view of the services which they had rendered their country during the war of 1812, they were not unmindful of the hazards they had run or the claims due to them; and sitera lapse of 40 years they have become old and infirm, depending for support on the charity of others. They therefore earnestly invoke the aid of Congress in their behalf, by extending the acts of March 18, 1818, and the 1st of May, 1800, for revolutionary services, so as in like manner to embrace those of the war of 1812. They also request that the several Senators of this State use their best endeavors to promote this object. A collectin was then taken up to defray the expenses of the meeting, which was paid over to the finance committee of the corps.

On an amendment, effered by John C. Hoyt, those sailoragehos served in the last war were included in the series of resolutions.

By Yas Pair, one of the veterans, then addressed the meeting. He said that it gave him great pleasure to be fined to the contract of the servent of

THE WEATHER.—Yesterday the weather was very fine, excepting that it was rather cold during the morning and excepting that it was rather cold during the morning and evening. It froze very hard on Sunday night, so much so all the ponds in this and the neighboring cities are again covered with a thick ceat of ice. The sidewalks were very slippery, and many persons yesterday no doubt came in rather too close contact with the ground. At seven o'clock last evening the thermometer at the Hazatto office stood at 30 degrees above Zero. Up to a lats hour last night it was very clear, and still continued cold.

St. VALENINES DAY.—The number of valentines delivered by the letter carriers has not diminished in the least this year from that of former ones. The prices paid for them varies from a cent to fifty, and, in some cases, even a hundred dollars are paid for valentines. These costly ones have generally some valuable trinket enclosed in them, and it is not an unusual thing for a young lady to receive a gold watch for a valentine. We are certain the letter carriers made more calls yesterday, and with more profit, than they had done for weeks previous. There was but one thing to mar the pleasure of the day, that was the sending of these strocious and disgraceful valentines which we often see exhibited in the windows of the stationery stress. No doubt the day was a source of great enjoyment to all those young people who received and sent tales of their love to each other.

Evan Sir.—I notice with much pain the statement of Clark in reference to your testimony on his trial. He was clearly mistaken, and has confounded the testimony of the witness Pinniey with that given by you. Referring to my minutes, the bill of exceptions as settled by Judge Edmonds, and the report of the trial in the various papers at the time, it will be seen that his complaint, if just, does not apply to you. Certainly there was no evidence given by you of the character represented, which forms the basis of his complaint. Your obedient servant.
